1. Airmail service across the USSR has started to operate although the schedule is irregular. From Moscow the mail is flown through Kazan, Novonikolaevsk (Novosibirsk ?) and Chita to Vladivostok. From there it is sent by the SS Smolny to Shanghai and by CNAC plane to Tsingtao. It takes from one month to six weeks for a letter from Moscow to reach Tsingtao.

This document is hereby regraded to CONFIDENTIAL in accordance with the letter of 15 October 1978 from the Director of Central Intelligence to the Archivist of the United States.
